

Lost & Found

Remnants of Savannas and Old-Growth Forests

- Overview Lost & Found: Remnants of Savannas and Old-Growth Forests
This traveling exhibition presents landscape photographer Miles Lowry. Through his remarkable photographs, Lowry captures the grace and grandeur in what remains of the vast forests and savannas that once covered the eastern half of the United States. Since 2001, he has searched out and documented restored savannas and pockets of old growth forests, focusing attention on these now-rare landscapes. His images are often presented as constructed panoramics—several square images combined into one multiple-framed composition.
- Rental Fee 3,500 rental fee for a three-month period.
- Shipping Hosting venue is responsible for outbound shipping within the United States; international arrangements vary.
- Components 24 sepia or black-and-white panels. Title, captions, and ID labels are available on file.
- Themes Savanna and Old-Growth Forest
- Space Requirements Approximately 150-200 linear feet
- Gallery Requirements Adjustable lighting that can highlight panels
- Security Low; public access to building needs to be monitored
- Credit Line Lost & Found: Remnants of Savannas and Old-Growth Forests was organized by the Chicago Botanic Garden. All images by Miles Lowry. All images were made possible by the support of The Ceres Trust.
- Availability Beginning 2010
- Contact David Hanke, Exhibitions and Programs Production Manager, Chicago Botanic Garden
dhanke@chicagobotanic.org (847) 835-8290
- Website www.chicagobotanic.org

CHICAGO BOTANIC GARDEN